One week trips in the east of Crete

Dates:

Tuesday 1st – 8th March

Tuesday 8th – 15th March

Tuesday 15th – 22nd March

Itinerary

Day One - Tuesday

Guests will be met at Heraklion Airport and driven to their friendly and comfortable accommodation at Corali Apartments, Elounda, with views over the bay. Once settled in, we will take a short drive to the hills above Plaka to see a spectacular array of species, including Gortys ophrys, O. papilionacea in their hundreds, Bee ophrys and Ophrys cretica ssp. bicornuta, Ophrys creberrima, Ophrys phryganae amongst many others. The day will finish with a meal together at an excellent traditional beach side tavern, where we can share a glass of raki and get to know each other.

Day Two - Wednesday

We have a relaxed day exploring the remote area around Mount Oxa where a number of species of orchid and ophrys can be found. Apart from orchids, we may find wild lupin and a variety of other beautiful wild flowers. Dinner can be taken at the well-known 'Lair of the Hare' taverna in nearby Neapoli. Expect to find O. anatolica, O. italica, O. fusca ssp thriptiensis.

Day Three - Thursday

Today we will be travelling further east to the mountains around Kavousi. This area is famous as one of the top flower finding sites in the east of the island. Combined with sensational views and lunch at a superb traditional taverna, this is definitely a day for finding a wide range of flowers and orchids. A chance to find O. fleischmanii and several varieties of O. sphegodes.

Day Four - Friday

After a gentle drive into the mountains we will arrive on the Katharo Plateau to experience wonderful and breathtaking views of the snow covered mountains and winding crystal streams. The flowers of the Katharo are stunning and besides orchids, we may be lucky enough to find wild tulips and fritillaries. Here, depending on snow conditions, there are meadows of the rare and endemic Crocus sieberii and Scilla nana. In this clear environment flowers abound and there will be plenty to see. Lunch will be taken at Yannis' taverna. Guests will have the opportunity to talk about his life and his love of nature. As a boy Yannis helped his father, who worked as a charcoal burner in the forests above Kritsa. This is a chance to experience and enjoy the reality of life on the island. Expect to find Orchis lactea, Arum creticum, Cyclamen creticum, Fritillaria messanensis, Scilla nana - amongst many other species. 'Katharo' means clean or pure and refers to the quality of the air.

Day Five - Saturday

A short drive to a remote area of Crete's north coast will give us an opportunity to find the superb O. heldreichii in large numbers, also O. fusca and O. mammosa. There will also be lots of other photo opportunities for endemic flowers and unusual fungi. A meze dinner can be shared at one of Elounda's welcoming and authentic traditional tavernas.

Day Six - Sunday

A wonderfully scenic day trip high into the mountains will bring us to the remote village of Thripti to search for orchids amidst the dense pine forests of the area. There will be a chance to admire and photograph the rare Cretan mistletoe – Viscum album ssp cretensis en route and to spot many birds of prey circling overhead. Lunch will be taken in Thripti's only taverna. A chance to find Aceras anthropophorum and Neotina maculata.

Day Seven – Monday

On our final full day, we will travel to the orchid meadows of the south east coast to explore a variety of habitats. We will have lunch at a beach side tavern close to the Libyan Sea. A supplement will apply for anyone wanting to sample the local fresh fish. In the pine forests of this area many rare orchids can be found and there will be plenty of time for exploring and walking.

Day Eight - Tuesday

The last morning of the trip and a get-together over breakfast at Babel Café Bar to share experiences and to exchange contact details. Guests will be taken to Heraklion airport in good time for their departure.
